

A prop that's 18% more efficient.
And 100% funnier-looking.

If you're thinking of snickering at the odd-looking propellers on the new C-130J Hercules, think again. Simply by twisting the blades a bit and increasing their number to six, we've given the aircraft 18% greater thrust at the same power setting.

It means at gross weight, the "J" can now climb to 20,000 feet in just 14 minutes, compared to the 22 to 28 minutes of its predecessors. It also means the aircraft will use less fuel and run quieter.

Of course, this is just one of the money-saving, technological triumphs we've installed on the new C-130J. We've also added twin-spool engines, twin Head Up Displays, a fully computerized mission planning system, and replaced 600 pounds of hard wiring with MIL-STD 1553 databus architecture.

We did all this to help you achieve the goals of your mission. That was our modus operandi when the Hercules debuted in 1955. And with this all-new, cost-efficient aircraft, it will continue to be for years to come.

Features

Hail and Farewell to the General . . . . . 14

In one of the NGAUS' most exciting Conferences ever, National Guard leaders from throughout the country paid tribute to Representative G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery. This year's Conference was dedicated to Sonny Montgomery in recognition of his three decades of service on Capitol Hill. Among the many distinguished guests who praised Sonny for his contributions to the National Guard and national defense were President Bill Clinton and Senator Bob Dole.

NGAUS Receives its Orders for 1997 . . . . . 24

One of the primary tasks of the annual conference is to compile a list of resolutions. The resolutions are decided upon by the Association's membership and voted on at the Conference. This list of legislative priorities are then pursued by the NGAUS staff in Washington, D.C. The 118th General Conference was no exception to this rule, and in the coming year, Association members can track the progress of 77 Resolutions that the Washington staff will be vigorously pursuing on Capitol Hill.

Oregon Meets Enhanced Readiness Requirements . . . . . 28

In 1994 the National Guard Bureau selected Oregon's 41st Infantry Brigade as one of the first of 15 enhanced readiness brigades. The 41st was tasked with reaching its readiness levels prior to the Pentagon's 1999 enhanced readiness brigade deadline. After careful prior planning, restructuring and hard work, the 41st has demonstrated that it is meeting readiness requirements. But is the Army ready to support its own program?
