The President's Page

In Memoriam

COLONEL JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN
PUBLISHER

ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL

A SOLDIER AND GENTLEMAN

1877-1949

THE NATIONAL GUARDSMAN

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION

National Guard Association of the United States

400 Sth Street, N.W., Washington 1, D. C.

Phone: District 3911

TWX: WA 388

MAY, 1949

VOL. 3, No. 5

CONTENTS

The President's Page

"As It Comes Prepared" (The Massachusetts Military Academy)

Combat Boots (Memorial Day Reversie)

"Give Us Leadership" (The Orlando Air Assembly)

The Battle of Washington

Jennie Is Drafted (Fiction)

The "Delta" Division (14th in a Series)

Beatean Uncensored (Conclusion of a Series)

Pentagon Paragraphs

A Briefing on the National Guard (Second of Two Parts)

Poster the Guard

24

20

30

31

31

OUR COVER

The F-84 "Thunderjet" shown on this month's front cover is one of the type that many Air National Guard planes will be flying by late Summer—they hope. USAF is turning back the clock to Republic Aviation Corp. (which supplied the picture, by the way) for extensive modifications at its Farmingdale, L.I. plant, before the jets go to ANG squadrons. (See story page 32.)

THE NATIONAL GUARDSMAN

THE NATIONAL GUARDSMAN PUBLISHING CO.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Brig. Gen. John A. Harris; Col. O. F. Bonham, Counsel

Maj. George J. Money, Sec. and Tres.

EXECUTIVE STAFF

Maj. Allen G. Cord, Executive Editor

Lt. Col. Charles H. Knowlton, Production Editor

For whom who like to get lots of mail, there's no job quite like an editor's. An editor gets all kinds—stories, pictures, publicity blanks, speeches, reports, inquiries, gripes. He gets to know pretty intimately, lots of people he never even has seen, and it's amazing what he can have with hall nippers via Uncle Sam's swift couriers who can't be stopped by rain, etc., etc.

Takis, for instance, one of our many correspondents of long standing. We've never met the guy, although we've been seeing his stuff in our magazine. We've been yucky-yucking back and forth about this and that, and we think you might be interested in one of his observations:

"We were indulging in a prolonged discussion of all manner of trivia and I was holding forth one of my pet gripes, to wit, squabby. I maintained that the primary stumbling-block to the disspirited today is the squabbiness of everybody in general. Everybody says, 'I can't stop the Roucheen . . . I can't stop the Tackler . . . I can't elect a good man . . . or impeach a bad.' Then, as I drove back to the hotel, I realized that I was at least as optimistic as anybody I had dommed. I realized that I was, in most instances, all talk and no do. That has disturbed me for several days . . . so disturbed me that my calorie intake has fallen from my usual five to a mere three squares per day."

And then, there's the kind of put on the back that gives you a lift, like the veteran Guardsman who wrote our boss, General Walsh:

"The Retirement Hill had quite a struggle with the Comptroller General, but we knew that all would come out right—how could it be otherwise with 100% backing by both Houses of Congress, the President, and with the full, the support of the National Guard Association. You have done a splendid job, and we are all greatly obligated to you . . . Words fail me, when I think of all you and others have done to make this Retirement Compensation a reality. It almost seems too good to be true. I know that it required a lot of time and effort—some real fight. So long as life lasts, we will be grateful to you."

Of course, there's another type of letter that gives us no end of pleasure, and that's the kind we get recently from Lt. Col. Albert C. Prendergast, CO of Texas' 135th Ftr. Bn. at Huntsville, Dallas, in typical Texas fashion.

Colonel Prendergast wrote that he was sending subscriptions for 415 copies of THE NATIONAL GUARDSMAN so that every enlisted man in his outfit would have his own copy. Since 100% of his officers are members of the NGA, it means, he noted, "This will put a NATIONAL GUARDSMAN" into the hands of each and every man at this station."

And when Adj. Gen. K. L. Berry comes along with a letter remarking that "These units are truly 100 percent, and in addition, are very fine organizations in a military sense. Do you expect us to give him any argument?"

Maybe our suburban grant does need cutting; maybe our household chores are being neglected; but we'll stick around Saturday afternoon to keep up our correspondence with folks like these.